Climb on board for a unique trip to remember

Bark Endeavour Whitby is an impressive sight, berthed in the River Esk in the historic town of Whitby on the beautiful North Yorkshire coast.

Our authentic replica of HMS Endeavour - which was sailed by Captain James Cook during his scientific expedition of 1768 - has been traditionally built by craftsmen and stands in the water some 40% of the ship's original size. The 'bark' construction of steamed larch planks fastened to a solid oak frame is complemented with traditional masts and rigging, which makes the ship quite unique!

Climb on board and you will enjoy a true Captain Cook Experience... During your voyage you can sit back, relax and enjoy the views, while you hear about Captain Cook, Whitby and a whole lot more!

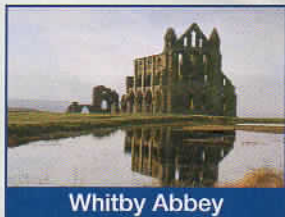

Choose one of our regular sailings and we will take you around Whitby Harbour and along the coast to Sandsend, where you will follow in the path of Cook himself and re-live his life at sea.

Having featured on numerous TV programmes, our sailing vessel has become a popular attraction for holiday makers, coach parties and those on education visits.

Our Captain is both a highly experienced ex-fisherman and life boatman with an in-depth knowledge of the local coastline.

We guarantee that it will be a trip to remember and we look forward to welcoming you on board quite soon!

voyage back in time for everyone!
